To the Lions at the Mediterranean Conference:

I want to extend my warmest greetings as you gather together. This is a great opportunity for Lions to strengthen our association and return to our communities more determined than ever to improve them through our service.

Gatherings such as this allow Lions to renew our enthusiasm for service. I am confident that your attendance at this conference will be of great benefit for yourself, your club, and, ultimately, your community

Lions are Beacons of Hope. We must let our light of service shine brightly. Please be particularly attentive to children, who can benefit greatly from our service and one day help serve others.

Enjoy your time at the conference and be sure to take complete advantage of this wonderful opportunity for strengthening your bond with fellow Lions and with Lionism.

Warmest regards,
